RUMORS FILL AIR

Who in Administration Knew of Leases Ahead of Time Is Question.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington.—Clean government will be the paramount issue of the 1924 campaign. Taxation has been overshadowed. The soldier bonus will be disposed of by a compromise. The democrats will take the offensive and ask the country to return them to power on the ground that their record of a clean administration was not sullied by any misuse of power.

The air is full of rumors and everywhere one goes there are whispers all tending to incriminate persons of prominence with a misconception of their personal relationship to the positions they hold. If half the stories which are being talked about are ever brought out under oath before the senate investigating committee, the sensations of the past three weeks will be tame compared with the disclosures to be made.

Boiled down to fundamentals, the big question is who in the government knew ahead of time about the making of the oil leases. Who tipped off friends so that operations in the stock market might be profitable?

THE TRUE STORY OF WOODROW WILSON

Monday afternoon, Feb. 4, the Gazette featured that new book, "The True Story of Woodrow Wilson," by David Lawrence was to be published at once and that its sale, its circulation could be had at a price.

In spite of the storm blockade the Gazette wired to Mr. Lawrence and the publisher asking for the right of reproduction in the Gazette. The telegram got through and Tuesday the Gazette was awarded the book.

The opening chapters will appear in the Gazette on Friday, February 25.

David Lawrence was the newspaper man closest to Woodrow Wilson than any other correspondent in Washington during the entire time of the presidency. He was friendly in college and that friendship was continued when Washington became a part of the field of life for both.
Lawrence, like scores of others, in Washington, was a confidential. He was at Paris during the peace negotiations and as close to Mr. Wilson, who was aloof from nearly everyone, even his own cabinet members, as any man there, not excepting Col.
House.

So what he has known and observed has been set down and will be printed. Gazette readers will have the book from day to day.

HERRIN MAYOR

(By Associated Press)

Herrin, Ill.—Former Mayor A. T.
Pace was arrested today on a warrant charging murder after he had been sworn in as foreman of the coroner's jury to investigate the killing Friday night of Constable Cas-per Cagle, "dry" leader.

Pace was charged with complicity in Cagle's death.

The warrant for Pace's arrest was sworn out by S. Glenn Young, dry worker and paid employee of the Ku Klux Klan, who has set up a defective municipal government since the arrival of the state troops who were sent here as a result of the near riot Friday night between "wets" and "drys."

At the time an affidavit of prejudice was filed by Attorney for Ku-Klux against Judge Belden and the

MAN SOUGHT FOR MADISON MURDER IS ARRESTED HERE

(By Associated Press)

Madison.—William Engstrom, one of the two men arrested Sunday in connection with the shooting of Louis Latwin, Jan.
31, was released by police late Monday. The other man, Alexander Karnehoon, 35, was arrested in Janesville, Sunday, at his rooming place, 113 Prospect avenue, and was taken to Madison to be held in connection with the shooting of Louis Latwin, 45, a laborer, who died in Madison Sunday as the result of wounds inflicted at 10 o'clock the morning of Jan. 31, when he was shot from ambush while walking to work.
Karnehoon, who has admitted desertion from the United States army during the World war and to carrying forged checks throughout the country, is said to have made a threat against the murdered man nine years ago, after Karnehoon had been sentenced to a reformatory term for robbing Latwin of a sum of money.

When advised to leave the prisoner told Janesville police that he had come to this city last week to get work, after he had been advised by his friends to leave Madison because he would be suspected in the Latwin murder. He said he came here to get work.

MRS. CANDLER IS ARRESTED
WITH 2 MEN

Atlanta, Ga.—In a raid on an apartment house Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Asa G. Candler, wife of the millionaire who has just been freed from a suit for a half million dollars for breach of promise, brought by Mrs. Onelia de Bouché was arrested with two men.

Sunday it was declared Mrs. Candler had not returned to her home.

Mrs. Candler, formerly a widow with two children and at one time a hostess in the city of Atlanta, was married to Candler last June. In the apartment, when arrested by Chief of Police Beavers, were Mrs.
Candler, a woman friend who rents the apartment, the remnants of a luncheon and a partially emptied bottle of whiskey on the table.

The two men arrested were William J.
Stoddard, president of the National Association of Dry Cleaners, and C.
W. Keeling, president of a brick manufacturing company.

Electric Power Off Saturday as Switches Fail

Business and industry in Janesville came to a halt for one hour and five minutes Saturday, between 1:55 and 3 p. m., when trouble developed at the Janesville, Sand and Gravel plant No. 3, forcing the Janesville Electric company to shut off all power.

Crossed wires blew out two fuses and caused the trouble, which should have been cut out by the automatic switches. Their failure to operate resulted in the current being shut off throughout the city, while it was being located.

Six minutes interruption was caused Sunday afternoon because of generator trouble at the Prairie du Sau power plant.

TWO SLAIN, MANY HURT
IN PENITENTIARY RIOTS

(By Associated Press)

Pittsburgh.—Two prison officers were shot to death and a number of convicts were wounded, in more or less serious, today in a riot at the western penitentiary. After an hour's fight, during which riot guns, tear gas bombs, clubs and bricks were used, the prison guards, assisted by the county detective and Pittsburgh police forces, succeeded in quelling the disturbance, which started when the convicts used explosives in an effort to dynamite their way to freedom. No prisoner escaped. The dead are:

William Pfeffer, assistant deputy warden.
J. A. Coax, an overseer.

Warden J. M. Egan reported that the riot was born in the midst of four or five "chickadees," recently transferred to the prison here from the eastern penitentiary to be disciplined. He added that he believed the main cause and a seed of the riot was known as "the four horsemen." They had help from the outside, the warden declared.

Prisoners numbered more than 1,000 had just breakfasted and were about to go to their tasks in the work shops when the riot ripped the main gates and a section of the wall, rocked the entire district, shattered windows and caused residents to flee from their homes.

Pfeffer and Coax were nearby.
They started on a run for the hold in the wall but were intercepted by 15 convicts who disarmed them, beat them and then shot the officers with high power guns, crying out yell became a battle ground as other prisoners and other guards joined in the fight. The guards conceivedly shot the rioters and, threatening the prisoners with the electric shock, ordered them to their cells.
But the explosion had signaled an attempt to escape, and with liberty at hand, the convicts broke out and showed fight. Even the prisoners in their cells added their voice to the confusion, shouting and beating on the walls and windows, crying out to the guards in the tiers. A few of these convicts got loose but the guards met them, hand to hand, and threw them back into the cells.

When it became evident that the guards in the yards were not faring so well, a call for help went out to the convicts in the cells and the officers were soon in the thick of the fight.

With this large force at his disposal, Warden Egan took command.
He stationed the county detectives on the walls, while guards and patrolmen took up the battle in the enclosure. The prisoners used pistols and anything they could get their hands on. The officers, trained to handle such men, bore in and soon got the upper-hand. The convicts were backed up and the rioting ceased.
Walls and after a brief hand to hand struggle, the prisoners gave up.

They were driven back to their cells, and Warden Egan immediately called the prison board, declaring that the riot could be punished without delay.

BELDEN CANNOT
TRY KUFUHL CASE IN ELKHORN COURT

AFFIDAVIT OF PREJUDICE FILED; TRIAL IS DE-LAYED.

7 NATURALIZED

Morning Session Taken Up With Granting of Citizenship Papers.

(Special to the Gazette)

Elkhorn.—Coming as a great surprise to the state, an affidavit of prejudice against Judge E. E. Belden, Racine, was filed by Attorney J. Zobel, Milwaukee, for James Kufuhl, here Monday afternoon, as the selection of a jury to try him for murder was about to open.

Court was then adjourned until Tuesday morning when other cases will be tried. Judge Belden will attempt to secure some other circuit court judge to try the case. It may delay opening of case until Wednesday.

Naturalization of seven persons occupied the morning session. They were Fred Asmus, Lake Geneva; Andrew Nelson, Whitewater; Frank North, Gurnee; Lake Geneva; Leonard John Hunt, Elkhorn; Joseph Bures, Williams Bay; Anton Olefin, Whitewater, and Lillian Waltman, Lake Geneva.

Paul George Hoffman, Darien, and George Bauer and Louis Lader, Shur-on, did not appear. Through a misunderstanding, Thomas Bay, Lake Geneva, was prevented from becoming a citizen, as he did not bring his witnesses. He was told to come again during the session with his witnesses and judge Belden would admit him. Adam C. Gogler, Chicago, United States naturalization officer, represented the department of labor.

At 2 p. m., Judge Belden called the criminal calendar. The embezzlement case of Joseph Barfield was continued, then came the state of Wisconsin vs. James Kufuhl.

At the time an affidavit of prejudice was filed by Attorney for Ku-Klux against Judge Belden and the case was halted.

LA FOLLETTE HITS AT COOLIDGE IN SENATE SPEECH

(By Associated Press)

Washington.—With growing bitterness, the senate debate on the resolution asking for the resignation of Secretary Denby entered today on its last stage.

There was an agreement to vote before adjournment tonight, and the majority appeared confident that that in one hour or another, the resolution would be adopted.

Meantime there was nothing on the surface to indicate that such action by the senate would affect Mr.
Denby's announced determination not to resign under fire. The White House has shown no signs of asking him to retire.

The resolution pending before the senate, when it reconvened today, was that of Senator Robinson, democratic leader, asking President Coolidge to request Secretary Denby to resign.

Delivering his first address of this session, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgent anti-administration group, declared that not only Secretary Denby, but President Coolidge and Attorney General Daugherty must bear their share of responsibility.

Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, opposed the Robinson resolution on the ground that it was an "unjustified decision on an uncompleted inquiry" and grossly unfair to the secretary.

Senator Cullen, republican, Michigan, opposed it on the ground that reasonable doubt existed as to whether Secretary Denby had full authority for the leases.

conference of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches here, announced Sunday that he will leave his post here April 1, "unless a successor is secured so that he may be relieved before that time."

Mr. Melrose would make no further statement as to his plans, declaring "all I wish to say was contained in the church announcement. He indicated, however, that his plans had not been completely formulated. It has been known for some time that Mr. Melrose was planning to leave Janesville for a more permanent pastorate. His work in the field of psychology has attracted much attention, and it is a matter of considerable interest to those who have known him for some time.

The pastor of the Presbyterian church is a member of the Rotary club, and has been a leader in community work. His announcement brings sincere regret to those who have been identified with him in

CHIEF EXPLAINS
WORK AS COUNSEL

All After Leaving Cabinet of Wilson.

(By Associated Press)

Washington.—In an atmosphere surcharged with political tension, William G. McAdoo faced the senate oil committee today and explained his connections with the Doherty interests.

He read a prepared statement charging that he had not been "prominently mentioned in connection with high officers," his name never would have been brought into the inquiry.

He declared he had acted in perfect good faith in accepting a retainer fee as counsel for Doherty after he left the cabinet and, in the course of a long cross examination, reassured over and over that the attack made on him has been purily political.

Wholly Irrelevant

"I conceive that the matter is wholly irrelevant to the subject matter of your inquiry," he said in conclusion, "but I have been willing to come here and give these facts for such use and for such value as they may have in the pursuit of your investigation."

When he appeared in the committee room, accompanied by David Rockwell of Ohio, manager of his political organization,

Show Your Folks

How teeth become whiter when you fight film

Ask for this test

Someone in each family should make this delightful test. It has shown millions the way to prettier teeth—to cleaner, safer teeth. To homes the world over it is bringing a new dental era. Let ten days show how much it means to you and yours.

That cloud is film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is what makes their beauty under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. It becomes discolored and forms dingy coats, to hide the luster of the teeth.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of periodontitis. The why few escaped tooth troubles, despite their daily care.

Clinical tests proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Dentists the world over began to advise it. Now careful people of some 50 nations use this new-day method.

Meets other needs

Pepsodent does other things which research proved essential. It multiplies the tooth-protecting factors in saliva.

Watch its effects. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear. A few days will convince you of its need. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

Modern science has found ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Chicago—Owing to an unexpected advance in Liverpool wheat quotations, the wheat market here took a decided upward swing today during the early trade, with deferred delivery contracts showing a new high price record for the season. The opening, which ranged from 5¢ to 7 1/2¢ 1/4¢, higher, with May $1.25 1/2¢ 1/4¢, and July $1.12 1/2¢ 1/4¢, was followed by continued firmness. Predictions of a crop kept sellers more numerous than buyers in corn and oats. After opening at 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ for a sharp advance, May $1.08 1/2¢ 1/4¢, the corn market underwent a slight general sag. Profit taking sales as well as sympathy with corn weakness led to something of a decline in wheat prices today after the market had reached a new high. The close was unsettled, 5¢ 1/4¢ to 5 1/2¢ 1/4¢ net lower, May and July $1.15 1/2¢ 1/4¢, subsequently the market receded. At one time today all three active future deliveries, May, July and September, sold at the same price.

The War on Waste
Waste is the result of misdirected energy. It is like dirt—matter out of place.
The history of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) success may be summed up in two words "Industrial Husbandry" which is another way of saying "Eliminating Waste."
In a big organization such as the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) there are innumerable opportunities to waste time, effort and material.
By intensified organization, by providing proper facilities, abundant raw materials, pleasant working conditions, and by encouraging initiative—the Company makes it possible for every man in its employ to develop the best there is in him and to conclusively prove his worth by his achievements.
Through intensive study and extensive research and experiments, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has found ways to recover more than a score of useful products from waste—products that fill a definite place in the commercial or domestic affairs of mankind.
Time was when gasoline was waste in the petroleum industry. Today, it is the major product.
Perhaps the outstanding example of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) achievements, in eliminating waste, is in the increased yield of gasoline per barrel of crude made possible by processes discovered and developed in its laboratories.
This achievement is the greater because of the imperative urge for more gasoline.
In 1918 there were 6,146,617 cars and trucks registered in the United States. In 1922 there were 12,239,114—or an increase of nearly 100%.
In 1918 the industry produced 326 million barrels of crude, as against 501 million barrels in 1922—an increase of only 53% plus.
Statistics show that while less than 10 gallons of gasoline were recovered per barrel of crude in 1918 that the industry increased the yield to more than 12 gallons per barrel in 1922.
This increased yield was due largely to the process as developed by this Company, and without such an increased yield the price of gasoline unquestionably would be higher.
Thus does the war on waste, waged so intensively by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), redound to the lasting benefit of mankind and also enable the Management of this Company to give a satisfactory accounting of its stewardship to the stockholders now numbering 45,286, more than 11,000 of whom are employees.

WILSON MARTYR TO CAUSE OF PEACE

Passing of Great Man Commemorated in Sermon by Dr. Case.

Taking his text from the fifth chapter, 15th verse of Isaiah, the Rev. F. F. Case, preached a special sermon on Woodrow Wilson on Sunday morning. The text was: "The mighty man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled."

"It seems fitting," said Dr. Case to commemorate the passing of a great statesman who was at least a great idealist, and generations yet unborn will bear testimony to the glory of his dreams and the splendor of his vision.

"The climb from the humble parsonage home in Virginia to the Whitehouse puts us to shame who may presume to either measure his abilities, or criticize his achievements. If this definition is allowed to stand, perhaps our departed president was not a great statesman, for we send many men to the hall of Congress who cannot plead guilty of being a statesman, under its demands."

Was Great Idealist

"Mr. Wilson was not a great statesman, but he was at least a great idealist, and generations yet unborn will bear testimony to the glory of his dreams and the splendor of his vision."

During the program, the band of each school will be presented separately, followed by soloists from that school. Several national numbers will be given. This concert is given for the benefit of the uniform fund for the band.

Italian Feather to Box Muller Here on Feb. 21

Joe Azzarelli, the Milwaukee Italian featherweight, and K. O. Muller, Chicago, will meet in a 10-round bout at the Southwestern Wisconsin boxing association in the stock pavilion at the local fair grounds, Feb. 21. This will be the return fight for Muller, who showed on the opening of the local club.

Azzarelli has won his last five bouts in Chicago and vicinity. Both men will come in at 127 pounds. Azzarelli is a former champion of the world, and his voice and his alone was to be heard above the roar of war. The American armies were the heroes of many nations, but the rope was at their mercy for food and money. As he passed through European capitals, multitudes thronged about him. After the war, he spent the last years of his life in the company of the most astute statesmen of the great powers. Mr. Wilson returned to his country, forsaken. The world had cast him out and his own nation had repudiated him. Defeat after defeat crowded upon him. The schoolmaster could not command, he could not lead and there was no one to follow. Smitten with sickness, he fought stubbornly through to the end.

"Now he belongs to the immortals. In no other great statesman has a greater idealism succeeded generations may say he was a man who lived far ahead of his time, that the men with whom he struggled at the Peace Conference could only see the peace that meant to crush and oppress their foes. Woodrow Wilson was contending for a peace based on the teaching of Jesus Christ. Then said: 'I have no more to say to this world, for I have built the peace of the world. It must be laid on this foundation. For the realization of these ideals Mr. Wilson gave his life.'"

SPoon DECLARED NO SURE PROTECTION AGAINST BREAKAGE

What happens when hot water is poured into a glass in which a spoon or fork has been placed? Many people believe it is the spoon or fork that prevents the glass from breaking. However, according to Frederic J. Haskin, director of the Jansville Daily Gazette information bureau at Washington, D. C., this is not the case. Although the spoon might lessen the shock of the water to the glass the effect would be almost the same as if the spoon were left out.

Another subscriber requested the date upon which "God's Lady's Magazine" ceased publication. Mr. Haskin found the date to be in 1910.

A request as to the subjects in examinations for postmistresses in third class post offices was answered by the bureau in that arithmetic, geography, letter writing and copying from plain copy were those involved.

Mr. Haskin also reports that a paid up 75 cent postage stamp is sent to the bureau. Twenty-four of these stamps were for calendars, one on child's health, six for the Greek clock book, one on the history of the rail, two on rice and one on sewing.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Janesville Gazette Circulation Merchandising Service

1924 will be a banner year for business—your business will be what you make it, and that contemplates the use of newspaper advertising. You can make your 1924 business bigger and make more money through Gazette advertising, which is the last word in the development of more sales from the entire trade area from which Janesville draws its business.

There are many instances that can be quoted of the successful use of Gazette space, in which advertisers tell of how they increased their sales, doubling and trebling their original estimates of increase. There is no mystery of black magic about Gazette advertising. It is merely the carrying of your sales message to the greatest number of possible prospects at the lowest cost.

Community Dept.—

The Community Department of the Gazette is unique in that there is not another like it in the United States. That its reader interest is great may be judged from the fact that the Gazette Good Times Club numbers over 3000 school children in Rock county, the work in charge of Mrs. Florence Slown Hyde, based on the lines of community betterment, wholesome play, music memory and clean thought.

Timely Editorials—

Editorials from the Janesville Gazette cover the timely topics of the day and are of such varied interest that many times the metropolitan press of the country has quoted Gazette editorials as being the best thought of the day. The editorials of the Gazette are one of its strongest features.

Farm Dept.—

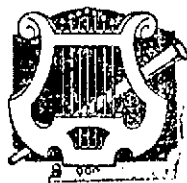

The Gazette pioneered in the matter of a farm department, was the first newspaper in the United States to publish a page devoted entirely to the interests of the farmers. This page has the unqualified endorsement, confidence, and reader interest of the farmers of this agricultural community.

Society—

In this department will be found every day the matters of interest pertaining to the activities of the social affairs of Southern Wisconsin. Naturally it is a focal point and is widely read.

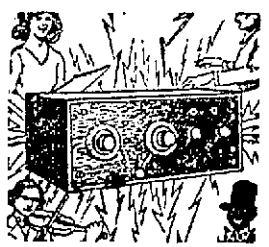

Music and Drama—

The department of Music and Drama is written by one of the foremost musical and dramatic critics of the country, writing under a nom-de-plume for the Janesville Gazette. Each week's review and forecasts are authentic and accurate and are read by many people interested in the modern stage and in classical music.

Radio Dept.—

Radio is the coming industry. While it is still in its infancy, the Gazette anticipated this growth and provided a department to logically and concisely present to the radio fans news and information about radio and now publishes a complete radio program every day. Radio fans in all parts of Southern Wisconsin use the Gazette's radio program for information as to what will be broadcasted and from what stations each day.

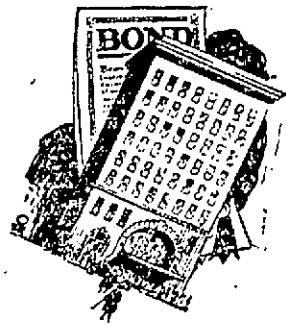

Screen and Stage—

Everyone is interested in the movies. They are part and parcel of our modern every-day life. The comings and goings of the folk of screen land forms a topic of genuine and wide-spread interest. This is covered completely in "Screen and Stage."

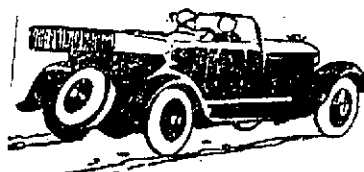

Financial Dept.—

The Gazette is the only newspaper of its size in the United States publishing a financial page. Here will be found the information on stocks, bonds, banking and markets. The only paper coming into Southern Wisconsin carrying today's market details.

Automotive Dept.—

The Automotive department of the Janesville Gazette, with its question and answer feature and its weekly lesson in driving and care of the car, is read by thousands of motorists. Very few newspapers have this feature.

Special Features—

The political writings of David Lawrence are close to the pulse of the political workings of the day. David Lawrence writes for the largest newspapers in the country, his opinions carry great weight.

The daily article by Frederic J. Haskin covers a different topic every day, is well written, and interesting. Other features that are read eagerly by Gazette subscribers are "Just Folks," by Edgar A. Guest; "Spur of the Moment," by Roy K. Moulton; "The Daily Horoscope," "History of the Day," "Looking Backward," "Personal Health Service," by Wm. Brady, M. D., noted physician and author; "Ask Us," free information service by the Gazette's information Bureau of Washington, D. C.; "Abe Martin," comic feature; "Hennerly," by Harris Drew, of the Gazette staff; "Your Baby and Mine," "Heart and Home Problems," "Beauty Chats," "Daily Continued Story," "Dinner Stories," "Household Hints."

Comic Cartoons—

Father, Mother, Brother, Sister and the Children are all interested in Jiggs and his antics. Then, too, the "Minute Movies" contain a great deal of daily humor. Who doesn't know "Tubby and His Folks?" A new comic feature, "Go Go," is making friends fast. "The Toonerville Trolley" and its accompanying comic characters, "Mickey (himself) McGuire," the "Skipper," "Aunt Eppie Hogg," the fattest woman in the country, "The Powerful Katrinka," "The Little Scorpions' Club," have endeared themselves to thousands. In addition to the cartoons the Gazette's page of pictures tells a graphic story of leading people and events each week.

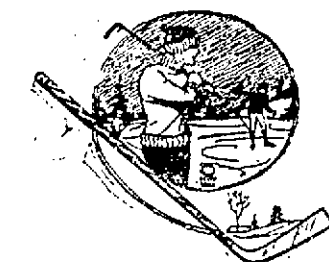

Suburban News—

Over 100 Gazette correspondents are located in every nook and cranny of this part of the state. The news they send in is read eagerly by the people living in the communities which they cover. Everyone is interested in their home town news. They turn to the Janesville Gazette to read it.

Sports Dept.

The Sports Department of the Gazette is one of the best to be found anywhere with a distinct, clear cut line of thought and action in favor of amateur against professional sports. This department has made a name for itself and has earned the confidence and hearty approval of its many, many readers.

Classified Dept.—

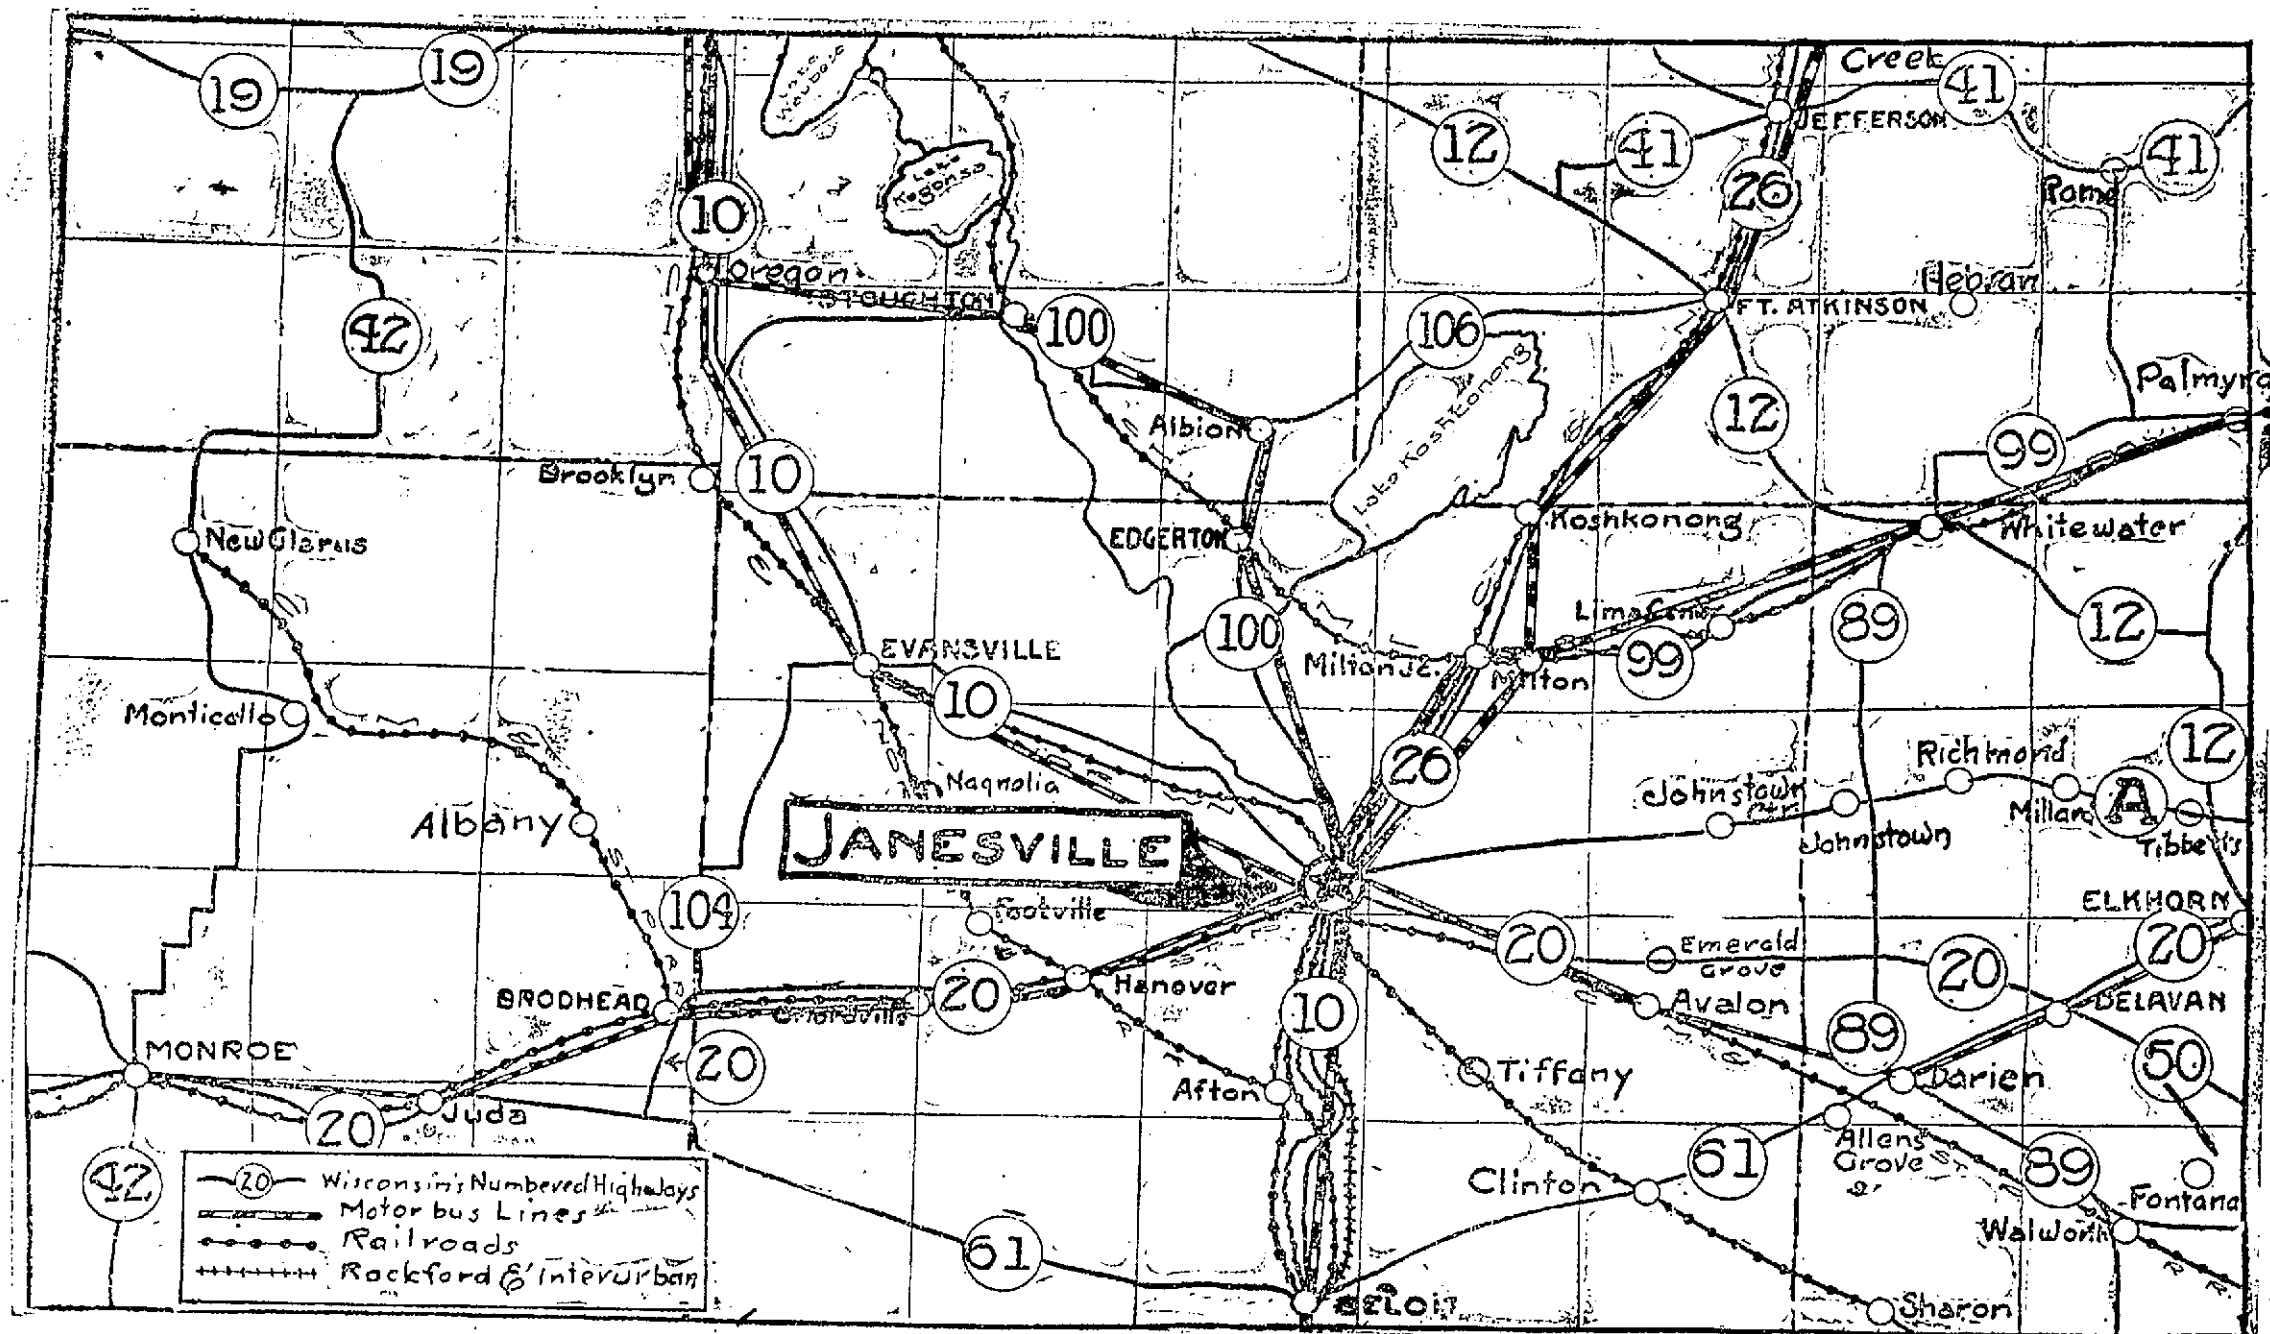

Here indeed is reader interest. Thousands of wants are filled weekly from the recovery of a lost article to the sale of an automobile or a home. Carefully indexed and classified, the great number of advertisements with their multiplication and variety, the daily wants of the community form a department that is of absorbing interest to Gazette readers. That they are read may be noted from the fact that frequently as many as 200 replies are sent through this office in answer to one classified ad.

What Happened at Versailles
 "Open covenants openly arrived at," a point made effectively by Woodrow Wilson before he went to Paris to sit in the peace councils of the world, became a sounding brass when it was carried behind the closed doors of the council chamber. Because it was so said because each person having to do with that series of meetings has given his own version of the conference, telling what he pleased here and keeping what he preferred to conceal there, we have had a constant series of "revelations" for five years. Lloyd George claims to have been misquoted concerning his interview in which he is said to have told that a secret agreement had been entered into between President Wilson and Clemenceau as to the Rhineland occupation. After reading all the text of that interview and the support given to it by other participants, one is inclined to be hater that Lloyd George was quoted, perhaps not in his exact language, but that the article itself carried the intent which Lloyd George had in making the statement. Orlando, Italian member of the peace commission, until after the Fiume incident, says there was such an agreement between Mr. Wilson and Clemenceau but that it was traded, not for support for the league of nations, but for Clemenceau's attitude in reference to his own statements, that of opposition to giving Fiume to Italy outright. It violated his own principles of self-determination for weaker governments. Clemenceau and Lloyd George were of the other opinion and as the Big Three in the peace conference dominated the treaty-making, when Clemenceau was won over, Italy was outvoted and had no place to go but to leave the conference, which caused a serious break in the negotiations.

If the agreement between Clemenceau, which Lloyd George, even in his denial, admits to and does not deny, was secret at the time of its making, it was an open subject immediately thereafter and the agreement as to Rhineland occupation was embodied in the Versailles treaty. We have never ratified that treaty so whatever we may have been pledged to by Mr. Wilson has not become effective.

Sister Huddleston, London correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, throws light on this subject by recalling that Lloyd George came home for a few days at that time because his attitude of softness toward the Germans was arousing popular indignation in England. An interview with the then premier had shown that he was not at all in accord with the program of taking German territory and occupations, and opposed Clemenceau in the reverses which were dominating all British and French thought at that time.

As a result, a round robin, signed by 370 members of the Commons, asked an explanation from Mr. George. Mr. George was insistent on a moderate treaty. Back in Paris was Mr. Wilson, president of the United States, who had been as firm as George, against occupation of the Rhineland.
 But parliament was too strong for the premier.
 When he went back to Paris, he faced the new and "secret" agreement made between Clemenceau and Wilson and voted for the Ruhr occupation with them. It was not secret—only a change in Mr. Wilson's attitude. That is the record as taken from George, Clemenceau and Orlando. "It took months of struggle," remarks Mr. Andre Tardieu. That "secret agreement" will be found embodied in articles 423 to 432 of the Versailles treaty.

Versailles is dead and over with. It means nothing to the United States except as it is kept alive by the Bots and other leagueophobes. It was a fight between ideals and loot, and loot won.
 The only ideals left were as unwelcome as the German financial program of suicide in printing unlimited paper and calling it money. They would not work because neither God nor evolution has made supermen—only men. What George did or Wilson did or the Tiger of France did are of small consequence now. Years and death intervene.
 The most important thing is that we escaped; notwithstanding a torrent of vilification and denunc-ation from being a party to the Versailles treaty.
 And so long as we remain clear of it and its offspring, we shall be that much the better off.

Just so long as that treaty stands, the league of nations is impotent. The league may be a hint but it is tied hand and foot, trussed up and gagged with the Versailles treaty and the attitude Mr. Wilson signed that treaty he stabbed to death his own league of nations and dulled every one of his fourteen points.

Anyhow, no one lost any money from mail order stocks of Trepoit Dome. They may have been wild but not wild at.

The Milwaukee Tragedy
 The sad tragedy in the suburbs of Milwaukee where six were killed outright by a locomotive on a crossing, when it demolished a truck load of boys riding home from an evening entertainment, can only once more add force to the need for care in operating a motor vehicle.

No one may guess what is on the other side of a standing train any more than he may be able to guess that a car might not be stalled on the track. It takes again, with emphasis, the question as to whether we shall not be obliged to make all railroad crossings arterial highways in effect, in order to save the reckless and chance-

Savings Certificates Attacked By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.
 Washington.—When the United States Treasury, during the war, invented a little green scrip, which was called a war savings stamp, many financiers were inclined to smile at so unpretentious a catch-penny as a means of assisting to finance a war which was costing millions an hour.
 Some went so far as to say it was a waste of time to bother about attempting to distribute these little stamps when the efforts of the government should be devoted to selling $5,000 Liberty Bonds.
 Doubtless many of these scornful financiers are changing their ideas for it has developed in the last year that the little stickers and their successors, which have grown a trifle larger, are playing a rather dramatic part in the financial world.

Hundreds of western bankers are claiming that the treasury savings stamps are responsible for the breaking of hundreds of western banks and some of the more excitable financiers go so far as to suggest that the unpretentious stickers will throw the whole nation into a financial panic. Very few people believe the latter statement, however.
 But the fact remains that the Treasury savings stamps are being blamed for the crisis in the affairs of western banks which has resulted in hundreds of them being forced to close their doors.

The 10-cent green 25-cent war savings stamp is not issued any more. It gradually grew up, first to $1 size, then to $5 and finally to $25. There are even $100 and $1,000 sizes, but most of them are of the $25 denomination. They remain however, the lowest denomination of federal government security issued by the treasury.

The story told by the western bankers is that during the war people got into the habit of investing an occasional quarter in the 25-cent green stamps. It is proverbial that habits once formed are hard to break. Those who contracted the habit soon began buying the $1 stamps and now there are a large number of persons who might be described as addicted to the practice of investing their surplus earnings in these federal securities. When a man buys a stamp he lends money to the government at 4 1/2 per cent interest. He buys for $25 a stamp which the government later will redeem for $25. For $80 he can buy a stamp redeemable five years later for $100.
 The $1,000 stamp costs $800.

It did not seem at first that these little stickers ever could play any important part in American financial affairs, but the western bankers now claim that the habit has grown so strong that people have taken the money out of the banks in order to invest them in the savings certificates.
 Banks live on deposits just as a living creature lives on food. If people do not put money in the bank, the bank has no money to lend out at interest and therefore cannot remain in business.
 The worst thing that can happen to a bank is to receive deposits and then have them unexpectedly withdrawn in large amounts. Much of the money deposited in the banks is there to be paid, so when the deposits demand their funds too rapidly the banks break.

This is what the western bankers claim has happened on a large scale all over the west. The people began drawing their deposits out in heavy volume in order to buy the Treasury savings certificates. The demands came too fast and hundreds of banks all over the west failed and closed up.

Federal officials from Washington first were called out to Chicago to confer with the bankers on what could be done. Next the attention of the president of the United States was directed to the damage that was claimed to have been wrought by the little stamps. He called another conference to meet in Washington. The biggest bankers of the country were brought into the conference and $250,000,000 of money was put up to help the banks out of their difficulties. Nearly all of the western bankers blamed the little stamps as the villains of the plot.

The story was told and retold that as soon as one bank would get into difficulties because of too rapid withdrawal of deposits, the word would get around and persons in neighboring communities would take all the money out of the bank and duplicate what had happened in the first bank. So the epidemic continued, wiping out hundreds of institutions. Even people who did not intend to buy Treasury savings certificates began to think that perhaps the banks were unsafe. They withdrew their money, and, not desiring to keep currency in the mattress or behind the back, they too, bought Treasury savings certificates because they felt sure that these obligations of the United States government were the safest possible investment for their savings.

The bankers object very strenuously to this government competition. They point out that when the people of a town put their money in the local bank, the money stays in the community.
 It is lent out to people of the same town to enable them to build houses, to start business interprises and for other uses which add to the wealth and activity of the locality. But, it is claimed, when the funds are taken from the banks and invested in the Treasury savings stamps, it is whisked off to the treasury at Washington where it does no direct good to the home folks.

Like all stories, this one has two sides. Officials of the treasury in charge of the savings certificate campaign have a diametrically opposite tale to tell. They assert that the savings certificate is not the villain it is painted but is a much maligned, though innocent, participant. They declare that bankers whose institutions have failed through mismanagement, through crop failures in their communities, through unwise loans or for similar reasons, have seized upon the savings certificates as a scapegoat and blamed it so as to escape blame themselves.

The savings certificate, they claim, has not taken any more money out of the communities than it has paid back in redemptions and interest.
 Indeed, it is asserted by the treasury officials that good bankers have been helped by the Treasury certificates because the sale of these little certificates has created habits of thrift which have indirectly resulted in increased bank deposits. The little stamp is a friend of the banks, not a foe, the treasury claims.

In support of its claims the treasury cites some interesting statistics to show that bank deposits have increased rather than declined over the period during which the certificates have been on sale.

The northwestern states are where most of the bank failures have taken place and also whence have come most of the complaints against the Treasury certificates. These states are embraced within the Ninth Federal Reserve District.
 The Treasury cites statistics showing that bank deposits in the Ninth District were $66,000,000 in 1920; $76,000,000 in 1921; $77,000,000 in 1922; $83,000,000 in 1923 and on January 1, 1924 had reached $92,000,000. The treasury officials declare it is false to claim the savings certificates are taking the deposits out of the banks when the official figures show that nothing is being taken out but that deposits actually are gaining. To be sure, certain banks have lost deposits but these, says the treasury, were weak banks, badly managed. Total deposits for the whole district have increased.

How the controversy will end can scarcely be conjectured now. So much disturbance has been caused that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has ordered all sales savings certificates suspended in seventeen western states.

HOOPER, WISCONSIN PIONEER SUGGUMBS

Former Mayor of Darlington Dies at Home of Son, Supt.
J. T. Hooper, Here.

William Hooper, 83, father of Julius T. Hooper, superintendent of the state school for the blind, a pioneer settler who contributed much to the upbuilding of southwestern Wisconsin, died at 2 a. m. Sunday, Mr. Hooper had been a resident of Janesville for eight years, making his home with his son since the death of his wife.

Born in Cornwall, England, Dec. 10, 1841, he came to America in 1847 and settled at Janesville. He was one of the first students at the Janesville Academy, now Plattville Normal and completed his education there. He married Cherry Callaway at Plattville in 1859 and the following year joined the caravan which went from that section to Pike's Peak in the gold rush. Travel was by oxen and the trip took months. Returning to Wisconsin in 1861, he settled at Darlington where he lived until he came to Janesville.

Was Mayor of Darlington. William Hooper conducted a general merchandise store there until 1882 when the practical loss of his hearing forced his retirement. No other man gave more years of public service to Darlington than he did. He was a member of the school board for 23 years from 1872-1895, served as mayor, was chosen to the county board, and was justice of the peace for many years after his retirement from business.

He was a member of the Masonic order, Elks lodge of Darlington, and the Knights Templar of Mineral Point. He held one of the oldest policies in the Northwestern Mutual life, taking it shortly after the company was founded in Janesville.

Burial is Tuesday.

Surviving are two of the six children born to Mr. and Mrs. Hooper. They are Mr. Hooper of Janesville and W. J. Hooper, an attorney of Gregory, S. D.

Funeral services were held at the school for the blind at 9 a. m. Monday and the body was taken to Darlington where services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday with burial in the Darlington cemetery. The Rev. Henry Williams, of Trinity Episcopal church, in this city, officiated at both services.

Short services were held at 9 a. m. Monday at the school for the blind. Pallbearers were E. G. Buck, J. E. O'Rourke, W. H. McElin, L. C. McCulloch, Orrin E. Bull and Robert Gestland. The body was shipped to Darlington at 10:10.

Many Enjoy Chalk Talks by Durham

Good morals and religion were touched upon in an entertaining way by Lewis C. Durham, who spoke at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, and the First Christian and Methodist churches Sunday morning. Durham, a chalk talker, made all his drawings in color, and switched from serious to humorous thoughts in a surprising manner, keeping his large audiences enraptured constantly. About 50 persons heard him at the public appearance at the "Y" and large audiences were present at both the churches.

He was a member of the Masonic order, Elks lodge of Darlington, and the Knights Templar of Mineral Point. He held one of the oldest policies in the Northwestern Mutual life, taking it shortly after the company was founded in Janesville.

The young man, just out of Waupun after serving a four year term, expects to work in Chicago, and will make good all his bad checks, it was promised by his attorney, Roger G. Cunningham.

Next Spring

With over 200,000 orders for Ford Cars and Trucks already placed for delivery during the next few months, we are facing a record-breaking spring demand.

Each successive month this winter has witnessed a growth in sales far surpassing that of any previous winter season. This increase will be even greater during the spring months, always the heaviest buying period.

These facts suggest that you place your order early to avoid disappointment in delivery at the time desired.
